

Centenary Launch

On Saturday 5th September 2009, the rainbows, brownies, guides and leaders met at the Cottesloe School Wing. There were lots of activities to do for all the different ages that were there.

There were lots of bouncy castles, which were really fun to play on, and on some of them you could go on with your friends. On some there was a course to follow with maybe a slide at the end. On others you could just jump around and have fun!

There was also a climbing wall for Guides and Leaders. The people organising it were quick, yet still kind and safe. It was lots of fun!

A few birds had also been brought there, for people to look at. You could also stroke some! There was also a falconry display in the arena (the birds were also in this).

Circus skills were there as well. There were: stilts, space hoppers, ribbons, croquet, plate spinning and more. It was also good as it was by a bouncy castle, so you could quickly run from one to another.

There was also an assault course. This had hurdles, a bench (which you had to line up on and switch places without falling off) and crates (which you had to pass to each other to stand on, and move from one place to another).

There was a biking course which was very hard. There was: a puddle which you had to go through; some ramps and lots more tricky things to do. It was also fun watching.

There weren't just things for the older kids though. There were kids entertainers such as Rainbow Big Bottom there doing things throughout the day. Mr Panda was also there.

If at the end people did not want to go to the disco straight away, then they could do some parachute games such as Washing Machine. There was a variety of good games and everyone got a turn so it was very fair.

Last of all we had a Disco. Everyone went to the main tent, and we counted down to the centenary year. Hurray! We all partied.

There were other activities as well such as: crafts, a sheepdog display, karaoke, archery, some instruments that you could play, a steam engine, there was a band that you could listen to and a big ball (you lay down and the ball was rolled over you). All together the day was jam packed with loads of really fun things to do.
